

They're going North — in Australia, the rush is on IRISH construction and oil industry professionals, doctors, nurses, social workers and teachers are all in demand in Australia's Northern Territory.

Northern Territories Minister for Business and Employment will attend a recruitment event in Cork next Monday.

The venue is unspecified, and the event requires pre-registration:

www.workinginnt.com.

The minister will also be at the Working Abroad Expo in the RDS, Dublin. Northern Territory's economic boom will see 20,000 jobs being created in the next five years with the development of their major oil and gas operations, including a new marine supply base to service offshore oil and gas operations.